J. N. Kehoe Greeted By Immense Crowd

The first meeting in the interest of the Co-Operative Tobacco Marketing Association was held at the courthouse in this city Saturday afternoon. The circuit court room was packed to standing capacity and the speaker of the day, Hon. J. N. Kehoe, of Maysville, was introduced by Major D. J. Burchett. Mr. Kehoe held his audience in a remarkable manner and the immense crowd showed intense interest. During the course of his remarks he stated that there had never been any doubt about the counties known as the "Hill Counties," such as Montgomery and Mason, but that he had visited the so-called Blue Grass counties and had ample assurance that these counties would pledge more than 75 per cent of last year's crop to the association and that within a very short time.

A permanent county organization was formed for Montgomery county and Mr. Clark B. Patterson chosen chairman with Harry W. Lockridge as secretary. The county organization was completed Monday and the following gentlemen chosen as directors at large:

Robert Howell, chairman; B. F. Perry, W. L. Killpatrick, J. O. Greene, Joe Conner, S. C. Barnard, L. L. Bridgforth, W. T. Highland, R. T. Judy, W. C. Clay, T. B. Robertson, R. C. Baker, S. D. Gay, A. B. Ratliff.

The county was then divided into precincts and the following selected as committeemen in each precinct:

Beans—Sid Calk, John Stoffer, James Hoskins, Jake Lansdale, Dan Prewitt.

Leves—R. R. Whitsett, C. B. Hainline, Beall Hadden, G. C. Anderson, Newt, Hoskins, Thornton Snelling.

Smithville—G. D. Marshall, I. S. Osborne.

Spencer—H. B. Duff, W. N. Hiler, H. B. Prewitt, Will Duff.

Howards Mill—Hughes Atkinson, W. B. Robinson, E. B. Quisenberry, Will Carmichael.

Harts—T. B. Hill, F. P. Boyd, A. S. Hart, Colonel Gatewood.

Aarons Run—J. P. Highland, Jno. D. Henry, C. E. Duff, Alf Moore.

Sideview—W. K. Prewitt, Rezin Palmeter, Joe Foley, Fisher Mark.

Grassy Lick—Roy Greene, W. S. Howell, Shirley Mason, M. A. Prewitt.

Only a limited number of blanks were here Saturday and about 1,000,000 pounds was quickly signed and many more would have been had the blanks been available. It is thought Montgomery county will be 100 per cent in favor of the plan, and it is hoped that it will be the first county in the state to "Go Over the Top." Every grower that has not already signed is asked to see one of the committee in his precinct or come to any of the local banks, where the forms will be available and sign up without delay. There were about 4,000,000 pounds of the weed grown in this county last year and it is believed that this amount will be signed within a very short time. With such an able county organization as above named there seems no doubt but that Montgomery will be 100 per cent for the association.

Mr. Kehoe's talk was very encouraging to the tobacco growers, who stated that had the Blue Grass counties done as the "Hill Counties" wanted to do last year, the 1920 crop would have been held and not dumped on the floor and sold at such a sacrifice, but that now the Blue Grass is in earnest and the success of the movement seems assured.

If we had never heard of the marketing association before we would have known from the large and rep-

Maj. Campbell Cleared In Bergdoll Case

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that friends and relatives of Major Bruce R. Campbell note that he has been cleared of the charge of accepting a bribe of $5,000 to help obtain freedom for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire draft dodger, during the late war. Major Campbell is a native of this city and a son of William R. Campbell, of Lexington, who lived in this city a number of years ago, and was one of the founders of the old Star Planing Mill Co., now the Mt. Sterling Lumber Co. Major Campbell is widely connected throughout this county, and the following comment from the Lexington Herald will be of much interest here.

"Lexingtonians regretted from the first to see their fellow townsman involved in the Bergdoll affair. It is with pleasure, however, that local followers of the news read of the findings declaring Major Bruce R. Campbell to be innocent. If there were to be any doubt concerning his record it is well that a full investigation was made, even if it did mix his name in the shameful affair.

"Of all the army officers mentioned in the matter Major Campbell comes forth with the cleanest name. His frankness upon the witness stand stamped him as a true type of Kentuckian, courageous and truthful even in regard to details which might possibly have worked against him."

Educator Dies

M. C. Boone, aged 92 years, one of the oldest men in this section of the state, succumbed to a two weeks' illness, due to complication, at his home at Kiddville yesterday morning at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Boone was probably one of the best known men in Clark county. He taught school for 40 years and was superintendent at one time of the Clark County schools. He was widely known in educational circles. He was born and reared in Clark county and has resided practically all of his life near Kiddville.

He is survived by his widow, who was a Miss Martha Ecton before her marriage, and the following children: Councilman Jeff Boone, of Winchester; W. T. Boone, of Pennsylvania; O. C. Boone, of Arizona; William Boone, of Indiana and Mrs. Clifton Daniels, of this city.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Kiddville Baptist church, conducted by Rev. F. B. Pearson and Rev. W. M. Nevins. Burial in the Winchester Cemetery.

Speeders Arrested

A determined effort on the part of our city officers in doing much to break up speeding and other violations of the city automobile laws. Eighteen arrests were made in one day last week and the offenders summoned to appear before Judge Turner. Some of the cases were dismissed, while others paid the fines and costs or were continued until Wednesday.

A GENTLEMAN

He who plays fair in the strenuous game of life; who is clean of body, mind and soul; who associates with honest men; who is courteous to friend and foe; who is too chivalrous to wound the feelings of others, and too sensible to lower his respect for himself; whose hopes and dreams are found on the rock of determination; who looks you straight in the eye; who meets victory without boasting, defeat without bitterness and all life with a smile; who loves his friends, his country and his God—is a gentleman.

If you can't play fair you'll soon have nobody to play with.

Intoxicated Driver Arrested Here

Ashby Thomas, of West Virginia, said to have been badly under the influence of whiskey, backed his car into the Miller Service Station on North Maysville street this morning and almost wrecked the building. Thomas had driven out of the Ragan-Gay Garage and started north and then attempted to turn around, backing his car into the Miller place with such force as to break in the front of the building. The plate glass windows were smashed and considerable other damage was done. Thomas was placed under arrest and his trial will be held tomorrow.

Bootleggers Captured

Jim Mays and Sam Terry, of near Farmers, were arrested Friday night as they were entering the city with an automobile load of whiskey, intended, it is said, to be disposed of here. The police officers who were on the lookout for speeders and other violators of the city automobile laws, were stationed on the Owingsville pike, when they saw the car which had only one light. When the officers called to the men to stop they quickly turned the car and started back in the direction from which they had come. The police soon overtook them and the men in a desperate effort to get rid of their wares, had thrown about twenty gallons in quart and pint bottles over the fences along the roadway. When finally captured only one half gallon was found in the car. Mays and Terry were placed under arrest and brought to this city. They were tried on Saturday before County Judge Senff and held over to Circuit Court under a bond of $500, of which each gave.

OIL WELLS IN EASTERN KY. MAKE FINE SHOWING

The production of the oil pools at Oil Springs and Wheelersburg, Magoffin county, and in the Berea and Weir fields of Johnson and Lawrence counties has begun to steadily climb, as shown by the runs of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company for the past several weeks and it is predicted that the chief development of the oil industry in Eastern Kentucky will be in this territory. The outlook is so promising in this field that even when the price of crude was lowest during the past summer and drilling developments were suspended or greatly curtailed in other fields there was little cessation of activity in the Johnson-Magoffin-Lawrence district and new wells were brought in almost daily, with new locations following rapidly in their wake.

Secretary E. E. Loomis, of the Kentucky Oil Men's Association, stated that he regarded the Johnson-Magoffin-Lawrence district as the most promising oil field in Kentucky. He pointed out that the sand in this territory is of the best, the quality of the oil of practically the same grade as Pennsylvania oil, which commands a top price and that while no sensational gushers have featured this field, the wells brought in are steady, substantial producers, such as come from long-life sands, as the Berea and Weir formations are known to be. Secretary Loomis expressed the opinion that some phenomenal developments would be witnessed in this territory within the next year or two if the price of oil continues on the upward trend.

Another fine well is reported from the Johnson county pool. This is the well on the S. V. Skaggs lease, owned by the Figler-Day Company, which has just been brought in, and is flowing at the rate of 100 barrels per day, according to advices from Paintsville. The well overflowed so rapidly that a nearby stream was flooded with oil from it. While the tubing was being pulled the well started to flow and has been flowing ever since. This strike is regarded as one of the best recently made in the Johnson county field.

Mt. Sterling Loses 11-inning Contest

In one of the most exciting games of ball played by the Mt. Sterling team this season Winchester proved the winner in a 11-inning affair at Garner's Park in the Clark county capital Sunday afternoon. The final score was 3 to 2. Each team, by bunching hits and errors, made two scores in the first inning, and after this frame it was a pitchers' duel until the last half of the 11th, when with two out, Winchester made three singles in succession, clinching the game. A Huntington battery composed of Dean and Moran represented the locals and did excellent work. There was a large crowd present from this city and the game was one of the fastest and cleanest played by the Mt. Sterling boys this year. They undoubtedly had the strongest line-up they have yet presented and with better luck should have won the contest. The same teams play at Fair Grounds park in this city Sunday afternoon and the largest crowd of the season is expected to see the locals even up the series. Mt. Sterling will have practically the same lineup as last Sunday, and with the class of ball being offered by Manager Bashaw, he is certainly entitled to liberal support.

DONATION TO STUDENT FUND

The following from the Lexington Herald of Sunday will be of much interest to Mt. Sterling people:

It was announced at the University of Kentucky Saturday that the Woman's History Club at Mt. Sterling has given $150 to the Student Loan Fund of the University. This gift comes in connection with the announcement by the Department of Extension that Mrs. W. T. Lafferty has offered her services to the University as lecturer for the coming year in a series of historical lectures for the benefit of the Student Loan Fund of the University. The department is in receipt of the following communication from the Woman's History Club:

"Mt. Sterling, Ky., Aug. 13, 1921.

"Prof. Wellington Patrick, Director, Department of University Extension, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky.

"My dear Mr. Patrick:

In reply to your notice concerning Mrs. Lafferty's lectures for the benefit of the Student Loan Fund of the University, we have not made out our program and I cannot say at this writing what we can do, but I am happy to say that our club is contributing one hundred and fifty dollars to the Student Loan Fund of the University this year, and I think I can truly say that the efforts of the Department of University Extension to assist us in the cultural work we are trying to do in our community has influenced our members to make this gift. I trust that we may be able each year to do our bit toward making our University a great institution.

"Very truly yours,

"MRS. A. B. OLDHAM, Pres.,

"Woman's History Club."

The Woman's History Club of Mt. Sterling is one of the largest and most progressive woman's clubs in the state. During the last two years the University has supplied in part a program with talent for the club, and the announcement by that club that a gift of this kind had been made was received with considerable interest at the University."

Henry C. Prewitt Dies in Louisville

The news received in this city Sunday night that Henry C. Prewitt had died in a hospital in Louisville at 9 o'clock, caused much sorrow among a host of friends and relatives. Mr. Prewitt had been in poor health for several years, and all hope of his recovery had been abandoned, but the end coming at this time was entirely unexpected, and is a distinct shock to his family. Deceased was a son of the late Caswell Prewitt, who died several years ago, and Mrs. Anna Kenney Prewitt, of this city, and up until his fatal illness was one of Montgomery county's most prosperous and industrious young farmers. He was only about 34 years of age, which makes the passing of this noble, upright young man even more sad. For him life had just begun, and before him, it seemed, offered everything that was most worthwhile, but He that doeth all things well saw different, and has called the spirit of one He loved to come and abide in his Heavenly home, where sufferings and disappointments of this old world are known no more. Henry Prewitt was a big-hearted loyal friend, a devoted husband, a true and loving son and father. His passing at this station in life is a sad blow not only to his immediate family, but to the entire community, where he gave every promise of being one of our most substantial citizens. He was a devoted member of the Christian church and led a life thoroughly consistent with the teachings of the Bible, and up until declining health prevented, was a regular church attendant.

To his heart-broken mother and devoted wife, who before marriage was Miss Nancy Katherine Owings, and two little children, Henrietta and Caswell, we extend deepest sympathy and offer a prayer that God in His infinite mercy may be very near and dear to them in this trying hour and may lead them on and direct their every step, and give them surcease from their sorrow. Besides his immediate family he is survived by three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Dawson Thurston and Eugene Prewitt, of Minneapolis, Minn.; C. R. Prewitt, W. K. Prewitt, Mrs. Edward R. Prewitt and Mrs. R. H. Lane, of this county.

The funeral service will be conducted at the residence Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, by Rev. J. S. Wilson, of Shelby county, after which the remains will be laid to rest in Machpelah cemetery.

From Office Boy to Bank President

(A life story of a native Mt. Sterling boy)

RICHARD BEAN

* MAXIMS FOR YOUNG MEN *

Here are some of the things Richard Bean tells young men when they seek his advice:

"Work twelve hours a day. A man can't be successful or find a fortune on eight hours' work a day.

"Live on less than you make.

"When you save money, invest it conservatively, striving for safety rather than big dividends.

"Don't be ashamed of small investments. Why buy 10 shares of stock when you really can afford but five? Start out by buying one share, if that's all you can afford.

"It pays a young fellow to stick to a job. Don't change every time you get an offer of more salary.

"Cultivate a spirit of helpfulness. Go out of your way to be helpful. You'll never have the following that you'll need in business if you aren't helpful.

The following article which appeared in a recent issue of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will be of much interest to the many friends of Richard Bean, who was born in Mt. Sterling, and who has many admirers in this city:

The office boy at the flour mills of Ballard & Ballard Company resigned in June, 1899. They obtained a new one.

Ordinarily the fact would hardly be worthy of mention. Office boys change their positions frequently, and their goings and comings are not reckoned as matters of more than passing interest.

However, the new office boy who went to Ballards mills in June, 1899, is given notice here because of the fact that they needed a new president at the Louisville National Bank in January, 1921, and he was elected to the office.

Richard Bean was already a bronzed war veteran. At the end of his junior year, in June, 1898, he had gone to Chicamauga, joined the First Kentucky Regiment there, and had been sent to take part in the Porto Rican campaign. It was in January, 1899, before he was able to get back to school, but he made up his back work in time to graduate with his class.

How Horatio Alger, Jr., would have gloated in the opportunity to record what the new office boy did! Here was a young man who paid for his education himself. Here was a young man whose record would put to shame the early career of Julius, the train-boy—who would have made the hero of "Sink or Swim" seem a spoiled darling of fortune.

The office boy started writing life insurance at night. His skill in picturing the acute physical ills of those delinquent persons who had forgotten what their doctors had done for them was replaced by a terrorizing ability to picture to a life insurance prospect the disadvantages of an uninsured demise. He used his life insurance commissions to pay off the debts he had incurred paying his way through Professor Halleek's school.

Soon he decided he could afford to write life insurance just three nights a week. The other nights he spent as a student at the Young Men's Christian Association night schools. Three nights a week in school and three nights a week seeking out those who were not prepared for the eventualities of human existence left young Richard Bean very little time to thresh out leading problems with the boys at the corner drug store or to master the intricacies of Kelly pool in the billiard emporiums of the day.

After three years of night work Richard Bean found his salary at the mill increased so that he could support himself comfortably and meet all obligations without the aid of life insurance commissions. So he gave up the night work and night classes to devote all his strength and energy to the service of his employers at the mill. But it was just before he gave up the night school that he had an experience which the afore-mentioned Mr. Alger could have described with a master stroke.

Two of the mill officials were discussing a legal question having to do with a sales contract. Richard Bean was now a clerk. He answered the legal questions that puzzled the mill officials. He could do so, however, because he had taken commercial law at the night school. The salary raise that resulted from his answering the legal question was much more than enough to pay for the night school tuition.

The history of his activities at the mill reads like a complete course in the milling business. Year by year his duties were increased and during the twenty years that he was with the Ballard corporation he was connected with practically every department of its business.

Mr. Bean was secretary of the Ballard & Ballard company when in February, 1919, John H. Leathers, president of the Louisville National Banking Company—it is now the Louisville National Bank—feeling that the active duties should be placed in charge of a younger man, conferred with the Board of Directors about offering the vice presidency to Mr. Bean. They decided to do it.

They offered just half the salary that Mr. Bean received with the Ballard corporation.

Mr. Bean considered the matter for thirty-six hours. He confessed recently that he didn't sleep much during those thirty-six hours. But he had the nerve to accept a place in a business with which he was not very familiar and to accept a 50-per cent salary decrease at a time when nearly everyone else was asking for a raise.

In keeping with his maxim that a man should always spend less than he earns, Mr. Bean curtailed his expenditures to be well within his greatly reduced income.

The Louisville National Bank has trebled its business and doubled its capital since Mr. Bean took charge. An announcement mailed out last week bears the news that Mr. Bean has been elected president. Mr. Leathers now is chairman of the Board of Directors.

A part of the announcement itself is an illustration of Mr. Bean's way of doing business. This part is the bank's statement. It is written so that anybody can understand it. The Bank statements, Mr. Bean said, explaining the innovation usually cannot be understood by a large percentage of the depositors. Everything is simple in this year's statement of the Louisville National Bank. It would be clear to a school boy.

Besides Mr. Bean's maxim that a man should spend less than he earns, there are others that he has followed. One of the most outstanding is constancy. It is easy to see that he doesn't believe in changing his job often. He has had only two employers during his business career—the Ballard corporation and the Louisville National Bank.

While he was working for the Ballards he received a number of tempting offers from other milling companies. During his first year with the bank he received three offers, each carrying with it a salary of at least $4,000 more than he was receiving. It was only last September that the second largest bank in the United States—it's deposits total more than those of all the banks in Kentucky—asked him to accept one of its vice presidencies—and Mr. Bean is still in Louisville.

As a result of Mr. Bean's influence, more than half the bank employees are now taking night school courses. Some are studying accountancy, some commercial law, some credits and some ever are taking courses in grammar. They don't say "He ain't in" when one calls to see Mr. Bean at the bank and he is out of his office.

The fact is, they seldom have an opportunity to say "Mr. Bean isn't in now. Isn't there something I can do?" Mr. Bean is there nearly always from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5:30 at night. The "bankers' hours" of tradition seem to mean nothing to him. And he spends a great many evenings reading the literature of banking and economics.

Everyone connected with the bank carries an account in the savings department. This resulted from group meetings at the bank and dinner meetings at which the employees discussed proposed campaigns to increase the number of savings accounts. Every employee was demonstrating his faith in the good sense of a savings account by having one himself, when the campaigns were started.

Up to the time of Mr. Bean's decision to learn and build a banking business at the same time obliged the curtailment to some of his activities as a charitable and civic worker, he was the guiding genius of a number of such enterprises. When the World War involved the United States Mr. Bean was made chairman of the Council of Defense for Jefferson county. It was under the Council of Defense that such war activities as the Liberty bond sales were conducted.

Mr. Bean threw himself into war work with a zeal that made his friends fear for his health. He had completed preparations for enlistment as a fighter when the armistice was signed.

For many years he was a director of the Young Men's Christian Association and chairman of its Educational Committee. He was in charge of the night schools, which had enabled him to untangle the legal question for the mill officials. When he resigned as chairman of the Educational Committee the night school enrollment was 1,200. It had been less than 100 when he was a student.

Mr. Bean was born in Mt. Sterling, Ky., in 1879. With the exception of a few years in Kansas in his early boyhood, he has spent his life in Kentucky. Perhaps that's one of the reasons he didn't become vice president of the second largest bank in the United States last autumn.

His wife was Miss Rella Bourne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bourne, Louisville. They have four children, Miss Alice Bean, Robert Bean, Richard Bean, Jr., and Bourne Bean. Their home is at 1271 Cherokee Road.

American Legion News

Owing to arrangements having been perfected for a great reunion of the "Old First Kentucky" in Lexington on the first and second of September, during the State Convention of the American Legion, General Roger D. Williams, who formerly commanded the Old First, has postponed a pre-arranged trip to China which the General had planned some weeks in advance for the purpose of visiting his son, Capt. Roger D. Williams, Jr., U. S. A., stationed at Pekin, China, in order to be present at the reunion in Lexington.

At the annual meeting of the Jefferson Post No. 15, in Louisville, 20 delegates and alternates were elected to represent the post at the Third State Convention in Lexington, on September 1st and 2nd. The Louisville Post reiterated its stand in favor of the National Adjusted Compensation and instructed its delegates accordingly. The post expects its baseball team to be one of the two championship district teams to contend for the state championship on the second day of the convention on Stoll Field and a great representation of the post will be on hand to root for the local team.

Democrats to Fight New Tax Bill to Finish

Democratic members of the House at a caucus last night pledged themselves to vote against the Republican tax revision bill, and adopted a resolution declaring that the measure was "subversive of the principle that should govern taxation for the support of this government."

The decision was reached at the fourth meeting which had been held since Tuesday in an effort to chart a course for the minority. The caucus also instructed the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee to offer a motion to recommit the bill immediately before the final vote, scheduled for three o'clock Saturday.

The resolution charges that the bill "relieves profiteers and taxpayers of large incomes from their just share of the load of taxation and leaves an unfair portion of the burden to be borne by the people of moderate means.

"It violates," the resolution continues, "the promise of all parties to reform and revise the system of taxation so that all citizens and corporations shall bear a just portion of the tax load."

Skirts at Limit of Their Brevity, View

Women's skirts can only go in one direction and still be dignified by the title of skirts. They must remain at the present length or be made longer. If they are made any shorter they become girdles or surcinglets.

This is the consensus of opinion of leading modistes of New York, who are sorely perplexed by the problem. Dressmakers and scouts for modistes returning from Paris say skirts there are to be much longer, but they doubt if the free and independent American women and girls will accept the Paris edict.

This is explained by the fact that American women have much trimmer ankles and more shapely legs than the French or other European women and are not averse to showing them.

"American women never again will follow slavishly the styles set by Paris," said one of the returning large dealers in women's costumes. "While the skirts of American women will never sweep the ground as some of the extreme French styles in Paris do, they never again will be as short as they have been the past season. The pendulum has swung as far as it can in one direction."

"Husbands, who are real husbands, brothers, who are real brothers, have reached the limit of their endurance. They are tired of seeing the skirts so short that it must constantly be pulled down when the wearer is seated in a theater or a motor car. Dresses for the coming season will be planned sanely as to length, as well as to artistic lines."

Food Prices Increase

Retail food prices increased 2.7 per cent in July over June prices, while the prices of wholesale foodstuffs advanced 1.5 per cent and wholesale farm products 1.75 per cent, the Department of Labor announced yesterday.

Of 43 articles on which retail prices were obtained, 16 showed decreases, including potatoes, 26 per cent, eggs 20, butter 16, and sirloin steak 1 per cent. Decreases were noted in 23 articles, including sugar, 9 per cent, cabbage 8, onions 5, and bananas 2.

SALT! SALT!

Mr. Farmer, why do you pay 21-2 cents to 3 cents per pound for salt? We sell 100 pounds fine salt, jute bags, $1.50; 51-2 bushel barrel, for $3.75, cash. Phone Mt. Sterling Commission & Storage Co., S. P. Greenwade, Prop. Phone 2. 89-2t

MERCHANT TELLS OF A REMARKABLE CASE

Writing from Maxey, Ga., A. J. Gillen, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her out. One bottle of Tanlac got her up and on the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and housework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes unsolicited from a highly creditable source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Produce Review

Lower prices now prevailing on poultry are due to heavier movement. Indications are that we will see continued heavy shipments to market with still lower prices, as prices on poultry for some time have been out of line with prices on other kinds of live stock.

Hens are now in the molting period, which is having some effect on the general quality, and is responsible for the lower dressed markets.

Production of cream is showing some increase, due to pasture conditions, and markets have declined in line with general markets on other commodities.

Egg production is now light, and the trade generally is turning to the use of storage eggs, as the amount of fresh being marketed is not large enough to care for the consuming demand.

Lexington Store Sold to Eastern Men

Edward Hinkle and E. D. Myers, of New York, have closed a deal with O. L. Steele, of Lexington, for the purchase of his women's ready-to-wear business at 130 West Main street for approximately $190,000.

The deal includes the unexpired portion of Mr. Steele's lease running for seven years on the business house occupied by him, his stock of goods and store fixtures.

To enlarge the business and make the building one of the handsomest stores for women's ready-to-wear apparel in the state, is the aim of the purchasers. Mr. Myers, who is in Lexington, personally closed up the negotiations for the purchase of the business, will likely remain in Lexington and have personal supervision of the store, while his partner, Mr. Hinkle, will spend most of his time in New York, looking after the purchasing end of the firm. The present intention of the purchasers is to incorporate the business under the firm name of the Hinkle-Myers Company, Incorporated, and steps to this end will be taken at once.

Mr. Steele, who retires, has not announced his plans for the future, but he will probably remain in Lexington and engage in business. The purchasers obtain possession of the premises immediately.

Our past failures father our future successes and our philosophy today sprang out of yesterday's folly. Each day is indebted to the sufferings of the day before. Education is ever the child of sweat and groans.

Victory is a child of determination and perseverance in power in every undertaking.

TO THE FRONT

Three issues back the Advocate had something to say about a movement that would result in the construction of a new hotel building and this has put our people to thinking; to figuring. One gentleman with abundance of pluck and a mark for interesting others, did not have the hotel matter so much in mind as a rooming house of three stories or more, a building for light housekeeping should the parties renting so desire. So far has this party gone that he has in view the location. This has been brought about by a statement of facts and business reasoning showing that such a building would pay. Another gentleman has in mind the location for the proposed hotel and before long the matter of financing a hotel proposition will be presented to our people. Mt. Sterling's future is not a vision; it is at the dawn. This section is rich in resources that are ready to drop into the lap of our city. It was once said of Lexington: "Wait until after a few of our wealthy have gone to the grave yard and then watch Lexington grow!" Lexington has had her burials and is growing, but Mt. Sterling will not have to wait for burials. The time is at hand and our people almost to a man are for doing something that will make Mt. Sterling a conspicuous point on the map.

HARD TIMES

No, there are no hard times. Barnum had a date last week for a show in Cincinnati. This show unlocked the cash registers. While one show usually satisfies the people of Cincinnati, it took two last week. The people demanded two shows; they had the money and they spent it. We have talked hard times until we believe the fiction a truth.

Keep on looking for the bright, bright skies;
Keep on hoping that the sun will rise.
Keep on singing when the whole world sighs,
And you'll get there in—the morning.

These are not hard times.

RICH IN ATTAINMENTS

In this issue is a sketch of the life and work of Richard Bean, formerly of this city. Richard will be remembered as the second son of R. T. and Mrs. Pauline Bean, both deceased, and formerly of this city. The rapid attainments of Richard Bean come within the circle of wonders. It will be a pleasure to our people to read of the rapid attainments of this young man on whom we have claims. Mr. Bean, young in years, rich in business experiences, has not yet reached the zenith of his attainments, and we shall expect much more of him in the business world.

A GENEROUS GIFT

Under the headlines "Spratt Home" in the May Bulletin of Bryan College, Fayetteville, Tenn., we note the following as a part of the history of that college:

"The latest addition to Bryan Campus was made possible by a splendid gift of $10,000 by J. B. Spratt, of Kentucky. The home was built during the summer of 1920 and was put into immediate service during the college year of 1920-1921. Under the supervision of a college mother twenty young women found home-like surroundings. The new building named in honor of Mr. Spratt, the largest donor, provides dormitory facilities for forty young women. It is of brick, two stories high, with an imposing East front, and commanding an excellent view of the grounds. It contains two parlors, a music room and an infirmary. The rooms are elegantly furnished."

This is certainly a most generous gift from a commendable spirit. Elsewhere in the catalogue the reference is more explicit by saying J. B. Spratt, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., made a gift of $10,000 to the college. The friends of Mr. Spratt will congratulate him in this effort to give comfort to young women in their efforts to attain a college education.

A Spirited Event

One of the most spirited events to be held at the Kentucky State Fair this year will be the Junior Judging Contest, in which the boy and girl champion livestock judges of the state will compete. From the reports made by C. W. Buckler, state leader of club work, from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture the competition will bring out some excellent work done by the young folk.

Mr. Buckler was recently appointed superintendent of the State Fair club department. He has been constantly in touch with the boys and girls of the clubs over the state and has directed the elimination contests which have been held in various counties.

The Louisville Livestock Exchange has donated $300, which will be awarded in the livestock judging contest to teams and individuals.
